

Aloha!

As a doctoral candidate in education technology at the University of Hawaii, and as a researcher + consultant across the state, I can tell you how important access is to our learners and educators across the state. Such access empowers our DOE ohana and paves the way for innovations that our economy, future, and educational foundations so desperately need.

Mahalo nui loa for increasing the funding for our E-Rate Program!!